SECOND ANNUAL POLICE SCHOOL OPENS MAY 13

Training School Is Under Auspices of University and Kentucky Municipal League

DR. JOHN W. MANNING TO OPEN SESSION

Trip to Narcotic Farm and Pistol Match Included on Program

The second annual training school for police, held under the joint auspices of the University and the Kentucky Municipal League, will open tomorrow morning with registration in room 111 of McVey hall.

The school will be in session through Friday, and the program will consist of technical talks, demonstrations and exhibitions. Dr. John W. Manning, director of public service courses at the University and state personnel director, will make the opening address at tomorrow's session, followed by greetings from President McVey. Other speakers at the morning session will be W. E. Bryant, chief of the Paducah police department, Robert Spahn, former agent of the U. S. department of investigation, and Orville C. Dewey, of the federal bureau of investigation.

Talks on "Policing the Smaller City," powers of police officers, and criminology will feature the session to be held tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock. Speakers will be George B. Berry, chief of Glasgow police; Joseph Goodenough, Covington police judge; W. Owen Keller, assistant attorney general, and Dr. Harry Best of the University sociology department. An exhibition of various types of new parking meters will conclude tomorrow's schedule.

Problems of the juvenile, problems of street and highway traffic and accident prevention will be outlined and discussed at Thursday morning's session. Thursday afternoon, John I. Messner, patrolman of the Louisville police department will present demonstrations of identification of firearms and bullets, to be followed by a tour of the U. S. narcotic farm on the Leestown pike. The Thursday afternoon session will be concluded at the farm with greetings from (Continued on Page Four)

University Studios To Air College Skits

"Going to College" Information to Be Presented on Wednesdays

Answering the demands of high school graduates for information on "going to college" and at the same time meeting the popular desire on the part of radio audiences for dramatized educational material, the University radio studios began last week a series of playlets on the subject, "The High School Graduates Look to the Future," to be aired over WHAS, in Louisville, each Wednesday at 1:15 p.m.

Eight of the playlets will be given on consecutive Wednesdays by the University Microphone players directed by Bob Maloney and assisted by Barbara Smith. The series is in charge of Robert K. Salvers, secretary of the Alumni Association.

The scripts are written by Clyde Waldemeer and include a description of typical college life, estimates of college expenses, and other problems that are likely to confront the prospective collegian.

In addition to supplying information about colleges the series aims to point out methods by which a high school graduate not going to college may continue his education.

This is the second series of dramatizations offered this year by the Microphone Players, the group having recently completed fifteen programs in the series, "Epoch Discoveries of the Past."

All student casts will take part in the radio skits, it was announced by the director. Students of the University wishing to audition for parts are asked to report to Bob Maloney at the radio studios in the Art center.

Professor Grehan Presents Paper At Teachers Meeting

Professor Knuch Grehan, head of the department of Journalism, has been invited to read a paper on "Teaching Techniques in Editorial Writing" before the Midwest Journalism Teachers association which meets at St. Charles, Illinois, May 16.

Because of a constantly recurring attack of influenza throughout the last three months, Professor Grehan will not be able to make the trip, but has prepared the paper and sent it to another member of the association who will read it in his absence.

Virginia Murrell To Give Recital Thursday Night

Music Department in Present Miss Murrell in Senior Concert Program

Miss Virginia Murrell, soprano, will be presented by the Music department of the University in a senior recital Thursday night at 8 o'clock in Memorial hall. She will be accompanied by Ruth Eaton at the piano.

Each year seniors in music are presented by the department in a senior recital. Miss Murrell's program will be as follows:

Chi vuol la zingarella, Paisiello. Del più a me non v'ascondete, by Bononcini. Se tu m'ami, se sospiri, by Pergolesi. La Gironetta, Italian Folk Song. Like melting tones it rises, by Brahms. A Garden Idyll, by Lassen. The Bondmaid, by Lalo. Were my Songs with Wings provided, by Hahn. Aria: Musetta's Waltz Song (La Bohème), by Puccini. Nymphs and Shepherds, by Purcell. The Rose Rhyme, by Salter. I breathe thy Name, by Salter. Fairy Lullaby, by Beach. A Pastoral, by Veracini.

Initiation ceremonies were held at daybreak Sunday morning. As a special feature, Lieutenant Sowards was initiated as an associate member. The following men were taken into the company:

John H. Bell, Paris; William T. Bryan, Lexington; Harry Bullock, Lexington; Richard Butler, Lexington; Granville Byrne, Brooksville; Fritz de Wilde, Baldwin, N. Y.; Dave Flanders, Battle Creek, Michigan; Ben Fowler, Lexington; Labe Jackson, Eminence; Sidney Kelly, Lexington; John McKinney, Versailles; Ike Moore, Lexington; Gene Myers, Harlan; Tom Nichols, Lexington; James Norvell, Perryville; H. T. Stewart, Louisville; Bob Stivers, Lexington; John Traynor, Lexington, and Thomas Riley, Lexington.

The organization will hold its last meeting of the year Tuesday at 7:15 o'clock in Buell armory.

President McVey To Attend Meeting in New York City

Pres. Frank L. McVey will attend the tenth annual meeting of the council of the American Association of Adult Education, of which he is a member, to be held in New York city the week of May 17.

Doctor McVey will preside at the meeting of adult education colleges and with Chancellor H. W. Chase of New York University, will speak at a luncheon, Wednesday. His topic will be "Adult Education Colleges."

Secret of Co-eds' Tan Is Revealed by One Who Knows

By ANN REGENSTEIN
Maybe you've noticed in the past week how the bright young things from Patti and Boyd Halls have been shining forth with an ever-deepening bronze hue on their fair exteriors.

"Hah!" we think as we pass them on the campus, "Swimming season has begun at last."

"This may be only too true, my friends, but then, remember the old saying: 'Believe half of what you see.' The truth of the matter is that half of these fair young maidens did their swimming on the roof of Boyd Hall. I'll admit, this does sound rather absurd since there is no water on top of the dormitory. However, if a person were to fly his airplane over this vicinity and look down he might notice a number of vari-colored objects stretched out on top of the building. He would probably blink and ask himself what the peculiar looking objects are.

Nothing to be alarmed about, Master. It's only a few of the College girls scattered out under the blazing sun in a deep endeavor to give themselves that delicate golden tint that a biscuit has when it

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER TO BE DOCTOR PARREN

Surgeon General of U. S. Public Health Service To Speak at Exercises June 5

BACCALAUREATE TO BE HELD ON JUNE 4

Doctor M. H. Lichtle, Columbus, Ohio, to be Speaker at Service

Dr. Thomas Parren, surgeon general of the United States Public Health service, will deliver the Commencement address to the senior class at the annual graduation exercises which will be held in Memorial hall, Friday, June 5, at 10 a. m.

Doctor Parren has contributed numerous stories to "Nation's Health," "Public Health Report," and many other magazines.

He was assistant surgeon of the United States Public Health service during 1917-21, and was assistant surgeon general from 1926 until recently when he was promoted to his present position. He served as chief medical officer at Muscle Shoals, Alabama, in 1918. He was the executive officer of the medical division War Risks Insurance bureau, 1919; director of the rural sanitation division, Missouri State Board of Health and director of the division of county health work, Illinois State department of Public Health, 1923-25. Doctor Parren is a member of Phi Sigma Kappa social fraternity.

Dr. M. H. Lichtle, pastor of the First Congregational church at Columbus, Ohio, will deliver the baccalaureate address to the seniors in Memorial hall, Thursday, June 4, at 3 p. m.

Awards Presented At Club Banquet

Manager of Walnut Hall Farm Is Speaker at Block and Bridle Banquet

A. C. Reed, manager of Walnut Hall farm, was the principal speaker at the Block and Bridle club banquet at the College of Agriculture held last Friday night at 6:30 o'clock at Tea Cup Inn with Louis Ison, Harrodsburg, former president, the toastmaster.

Speaking on the subject of "Horse Breeding," Mr. Reed traced the development of the standard bred horse in America and declared that it is one of this country's chief contributions to the breeding of livestock. He referred to Peter Volo, now stabled at Walnut Hall, as the outstanding sire of the standard breed.

Logan Brown, Shelbyville, addressed the meeting on "What Block and Bridle Means to Me," and Albert Isham, Lexington, responded with "What Block and Bridle Has Meant to Me." Dean Thomas Cooper gave a brief talk and Prof. L. J. Horlacher presented the awards to the winners of the annual Block and Bridle livestock judging contest, held last month.

Rob Roy Norton, Morgantown, won the upperclassmen's cup; Harold Kitchen, Versailles, the freshman's cup, and Ted Ramsey, the award for being the high man of the Berea team.

The Freshman cabinet will have their regular meeting at 7 o'clock Tuesday night in the YMCA rooms in the Armory.

comes out of the oven... if it (the biscuit) doesn't get too burnt before it gets out. In this case, nobody will eat it. But otherwise, gobbie, gobble, um-m-m-m.

Words that pass on (or off) the roof.

"Gosh, I'm burning up! Hand me some more of that oil, Sadie. I don't want to be too red for that dance tomorrow night. It might clash with the color of my dress."

"Well, ooh! Darn it! You don't have to mash me flat as a pancake to get it! Here, take the darn stuff! Whereupon the speaker sat up and then flopped over on her stomach with a snort of disgust."

And in another corner a sleek little red-head by peacefully basking herself in those piercing rays while perspiration rolled down her face and neck... rolled all around. In fact, but what did she care? In her mind were visions of her "swain of the moment's" admiring eyes when he saw how levelly a red-head with tan complexion in a white dress could look. The belle of the ball, maybe, but how about a blister? No, thanks? Well, if at first you don't succeed, fry, fry, again.

Gov. Chandler Chief Speaker At Law Banquet

Law College Presents Order of Coif Certificates at Dinner

Gov. A. B. Chandler delivered the principal address at the annual College of Law banquet held last night in the main ball room of the Lafayette hotel.

Sam Kennedy, chairman of the College of Law council, presided as toastmaster and introduced the speaker. The banquet was held under the auspices of the College of Law council, whose members are selected by the faculty of the college.

John Grey, Jack Evans, and Alfred Jones, students in the college, were presented certificates of the Order of the Coif, international legal honorary, in recognition of their scholarship. These men were the three highest in their class. Awards of the Law Journal were also made.

Chief Justice William Rodgers Clay, of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, was also inducted into the Order of the Coif at the banquet, and Chester Silvers, representative from Fayette county, also spoke.

SIGMA XI WILL HOLD INITIATION

Thirteen Will Be Inducted and Seven Associate Members Elected at Annual Banquet

Thirteen men recently elected to active membership will be initiated, and seven students elected to associate membership will be recognized at the annual banquet of Sigma Xi, honorary society for the advancement of research, Friday evening at 6:30 o'clock in the Lafayette hotel.

Dr. Carey Cronis, Chicago, professor of geology at the University of Chicago, and director of the Hall of Science at the Century of Progress exposition, will deliver the principal address of the evening. His subject will be "The Path of Life." Professor C. S. Crouse, president of the local chapter, will preside at the banquet.

Those who have been elected to active membership are: Robert H. Baker, instructor in chemistry at the University; Graham Dimmick, professor of psychology at the University; William Forsee, assistant research chemist, University Experiment Station; Fritz John, assistant professor of mathematics and astronomy; Malcolm Lyons, assistant research chemist, Experiment station; James May, assistant professor of heating and venting; Bertrand P. Ramsey, instructor in physics; Thomas Armstrong, graduate of the University in metallurgy and at present with the International Nickel company, New York city; Forrest Cleveland, graduate of the University and professor of physics at Lynchburg College; Russell Park, graduate of the University and professor of mathematics at Eastern State Teachers' college; Dr. Rurus C. Allen, Lexington physician, and Ralph S. Brown, psychologist, U. S. Narcotic farm, Lexington.

Those elected to associate membership are James F. Allen, graduate student in chemistry; Wallace Anderson, graduate assistant in physics; Aubrey Brimshaw, graduate student in zoology; James S. Calvin, graduate assistant in psychology; Willis Corruith, graduate student in chemistry; William G. Holton, senior in chemistry; and Miss Elsa Lisle, senior in chemistry.

Dr. Cronis will also speak Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock under the sponsorship of Sigma Xi in the physics lecture room of the civil engineering and physics building. His subject will be "The Age of the Earth." The public is invited to attend this lecture.

Bacteriologists To Hear Rockwell

Dr. George E. Rockwell, professor of bacteriology at the University of Cincinnati, will speak before the Bacteriological Society of the University on Tuesday evening, May 12, at 7:30 o'clock in Kastle hall. The subject of his address will be "Immunity Against the Common Cold by Oral Administration of the Vaccine."

The common cold, protective as described by Dr. Rockwell is a vaccine given in capsules with a glass of cold water. The capsules contain the killed bodies of 25 billion to 100 billion pneumococci germs, 15 billion to 100 billion streptococci germs, a million flu germs and a million enteric germs.

Dr. Rockwell and his associates believe these experiments have definitely established the feasibility of immunizing against common colds and other respiratory diseases, and that more rapid strides in this direction will now be possible. The meeting of the society will be open to the public.

KENTUCKY UNIT SEEKS TO GAIN FIFTH VICTORY

Pershing Rifle Drill Meet to Be on Stoll Field Friday Night at 8 o'clock

GOVERNOR CHANDLER TO PRESENT TROPHY

Eight Universities to Send Teams; Purdue's Zouaves to Attend

Approximately 600 men from 8 universities are expected to visit the campus Friday when Company C. Pershing Rifles, is host to the 1936 regimental drill of the Fifth Corps area on Stoll field Friday night.

Elaborate plans are being made for the event by the local company, Company C, under the command of Cadet Lieutenant-Colonel Pelham Johnston, who will be seeking its fifth consecutive championship, having won the competition for the last four years, or ever since the local unit was organized.

Governor A. B. Chandler and Lieutenant-Governor Keen Johnston will be honor guests for the occasion. The local unit will meet the governor and lieutenant-governor and their parties upon their arrival here Friday and will escort them to special boxes on Stoll field. The governor will make the formal presentation of the championship cup to the winning unit.

Special features of the competition will be an exhibition drill by the drum and bugle corps of Man of War post of the American Legion and a non-competitive drill by the Purdue University's crack rifle unit, the Zouaves, who will make the trip here especially for the meet.

Members of the local company have been drilling three days a week throughout the year and those in charge expressed belief that the Ohio University unit is their most formidable competitor. The Ohio chapter has been runner-up for the past four years.

Judges for the event as announced Saturday by Lieutenant-Colonel B. E. Brewer, are: Capt. James Howe, Tenth Infantry; Lieutenant David Schorr, Tenth Infantry; and Major H. G. Frey, Lexington. Selection of the judges was made by headquarters of the Fifth Corps area at Columbus.

Following are the schools who will compete for the championship cup: University of Indiana, University of Illinois, Ohio State University, Purdue University, University of Akron, University of Dayton, University of Cincinnati, and University of Kentucky.

JOURNALISTS CONFER WITH LOCAL GROUP

John Kuiper, national secretary of Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic men's honorary, and Tom Wallace, editor of the Louisville Times, are on the campus conferring with members of Delta Sigma Chi, local journalistic honorary. In regard to the withdrawal of the local chapter from the national organization last fall, they attended a meeting of the local organization last night at 8 o'clock at the home of Elmer Sulzer, faculty adviser.

GOLF TEAM LOSES

The University of Kentucky varsity golf team fell victim to the University of Tennessee Nashville, 11-2 to 6-2, Saturday afternoon at Knoxville.

Reconstruction of Campus Is Reviewed by Reporter

By SIDNEY BUCKLEY

One half mile of sidewalks being built by the University at a cost of $6,500 is just one of the many reconstruction projects that are in progress throughout the campus.

The University is rushing work of many sorts to aid spring in beautifying the campus. The casual observer may only notice the new walks that he has found it necessary to detour, and the destruction of the shops, but much more is being accomplished than first meets the eye.

One of the larger jobs recently begun is the reconstruction of six bathrooms in Patterson hall at an estimated cost of $8,000. Frame hall is receiving a new coat of paint on its hallways and woodwork. A wire fence is being built to separate Patterson hall from the adjoining property. The northwest corner of the service building is being torn down to clear a sight for the new heating plant. The playground of the University Training school is being graded for the activities that accompany spring.

One of the better ideas is the remodeling of the Patrick House for a Nursery school to be conducted by the home economics department next year. June 1 is the date set for the completion of this job and $1,700 is the estimated cost.

Satirical Play To Be Presented By High School

"Be Yourself" Chosen as University High School Senior Production

"Be Yourself," a popular satirical adventure in three acts, will be presented by the Senior class of the University High school on Thursday evening, May 14, at 8 o'clock in the Training School auditorium. The play chosen for presentation this year was written by Wilbur Braun author of "It's a Gift," "All at Sea," and many other popular hits. It will be staged under the direction of Miss Fannie Herman who directed the last Strollers revue.

The contact of Mr. Braun with the celebrities of the theater and the bohemian world suggested the idea and inspiration for this delightful satire of adventure. The specific theme of the play, however, came from the idea expressed by a famous interior decorator; that to successfully decorate an apartment the staff would have to live there to absorb the atmosphere.

Immediately upon hearing this Mr. Braun went home and started to write "Be Yourself." He placed the heroine alone in an apartment because she was going to decorate it, and proceeded to weave an intriguing farcical adventure. The play is extremely novel in its setting; the dialogue is excellent.

The cast of the play is as follows: Leslie Farris, an interior decorator, Ruth Peak; Beverly Lane, a seamstress who works with her; Leigh Brown; Madame Francis, her employer, Fannie Belle Pirkey; Miss Patricia Ballard, who is vacating the apartment, Virginia Hisey; Euelah Ballard, her "baby" daughter, Martha Mitchell; Mrs. Minnie Hendricks, who occupies an apartment in the same building, Catherine Ann Melendicks; Arnold Ford, who is engaged to Leslie, David Sageser; Bing Warren, who is determined to be a detective, Norman Elam; Leslie Prince, a young newspaper man, Ralph Mohney; Anna Karov, who causes a lot of trouble, Jayne Well; Prince Luverne, who rented the apartment, Preston Johnston.

The regular meeting of the Senior Cabinet will be held at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening in the YMCA room in the Armory.

MANY CHANGES IN REGULATIONS MADE BY SENATE

Adding of Thirteen Courses, Altering Advanced Degree Laws Are Embraced

EDUCATION DEGREE WILL BE ESTABLISHED

Comprehensive Examinations for Journalism Seniors Is O.K.'d

Thirteen new courses, two additions to the regulations applying to advanced degrees, and several course changes were approved by the University Senate at its monthly meeting at 4 p. m. yesterday in room 111, McVey hall.

The first addition to regulations for advanced degrees provides for the establishment of the professional degree of master of arts in education, open to students who have received the degree of B. A. or of B. A. in education, and the professional degree of master of science in education for students who have received the degree of B. S. or B. S. in education. The requirements for these degrees will be the same as those previously required in the College of Education for an M. A. degree.

The second addition states that the language requirement for the M. A. and M. S. degrees shall be satisfied by an examination given by the foreign language department offering instruction in the language concerned. The passing of this examination will satisfy one of the two language requirements for the doctorate.

New courses added were as follows: College of Arts and Sciences, sociology 20a, tutorial work for sociology majors; Art 42, painting and sculpture in the United States; Journalism 90a, tutorial seminar (seniors only); anthropology and archaeology 110a, b and c, field work in archaeology; Romance Language 201a, literature of the French Renaissance; Romance Language 80a, tutorial seminar; History 194, the United States in the Pacific and Far East since 1898; History 138, British social history during the Tudor period; Art 60, seminar in art; History 142, advanced history of Kentucky; History 180, history of the new South; History 290, history of Japan. College of Agriculture, Farm Economics 121, special problems in rural life.

HERE SHALL THE KERNEL ALL STUDENTS RIGHTS MAINTAIN

ODK AND THE PROFESSIONALS

Omicron Delta Kappa's long-expected move against professional and semi-honorary societies became a reality Thursday night when it eliminated from its point system toward membership, all but seven of these fraternities. Membership in a pseudo-honorary now will not count toward ODK points.

This action is expected to take from these societies much of the lure with which they baited students in order to initiate them. Many staff members and administrative officers with the welfare of the student body at heart, had often warned others that the professional fraternity was becoming a menace. Interested only in obtaining initiation fees to fatten the till of a national office far removed from the campus, the professional society, in reality, was merely trading a Greek letter or two for ten, twenty-five or fifty dollars or more.

Honoraries which are worthy of the student's attention will not fall under the new ruling. Sigma Xi, Phi Beta Kappa, and the others, who actually set up a high standard and then follow it, serve as a real incentive to scholarship and other causes. The fight has been with the semi-honorary and not the real honorary.

When the student realizes that it becomes no honor to affiliate himself with an organization that embraces no other ideal than that of a financial nature, then the societies under fire will be defeated in their every purpose. As has been set out before in these columns, it was getting to the point where honor could be purchased.

There is one more objective, however, which The Kernel is interested in promulgating for the good of the student body at large. We refer to the initiation fee of the better class of these societies. In some instances, the student who has met the requirements toward membership in an organization is unable to join because of a prohibitive initiation charge.

There must be some means of making the national offices of the various honoraries aware of the situation. It is not fair to the student who has met, say, a scholastic requirement, to be forced to refuse a bid because of the finances involved. In the strictest sense of the word, the good honorary requires for membership some outstanding trait in the student, recognizing, as it were, an outstanding ability in some field of endeavor.

Money should not be added as a requirement for membership. Naturally, we realize that in order to maintain an efficient and workable national fraternity, a certain amount of money is needed. The Kernel believes, however, that the national offices of the various outstanding organizations could make a report to the several colleges entailing the cost of maintaining their offices to a proper degree.

Many universities and colleges have already signified their aim in this respect. With proper cooperation among these units, a better understanding between the national honorary and the university might arise. The majority of these societies are doing a great work, and it is in the spirit of knowing and believing that The Kernel would respectfully suggest to them the worth of such reports both to their organizations and to the universities in which they maintain chapters.

The greatest opposition these worthy organizations have had has been from the petty professional lodge. With the removal of this opposition a more closely knit understanding between the society and the student should be established.

Austin's largest insurance company failed recently. Isn't there some kind of insurance against insurance companies going bankrupt?

COLLEGIATE PESSIMISM

There is no need for the pessimism that the seemingly great majority of college students express in regard to the value of their education. Reference is quite often made by those not in favor of higher education to the success of men like Chrysler, Woolworth, Edison, Rockefeller and Carnegie who did not have the background of a college education and yet made an overwhelming success of their lives. They point to a few other men as evidence that high scholarship is not necessarily an asset.

As in all cases, there are exceptions. The men to whom they point are industrial giants of another age whose positions are even now being taken or will soon be taken by men who have been thoroughly educated. In this age of keen competition, it is indeed an oddity for men with a poor education to be selected for positions of responsibility in the world of business.

Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph company, has made a study of college records which indicate that students in the first third of their graduating class achieve by far the most notable success. The bottom third scholastically remains the bottom third in later success.

There will always be the pessimists who think that what a student does in college means little or nothing. University administrators know better than that. Practically all employers who come to the campus or seek letters of recommendation ask for students with good character, good grades, regular attendance, good personalities, and who have either been self-supporting, or have taken an active part in extra-curricular activities.

Regardless of the widespread unemployment of depression years, the top-notch college graduates have still found jobs. Their records helped to pave the way; it wasn't luck.

WHAT'S TO BECOME OF TADE?

Herbie Tade needs no introduction. We all know him. He is the lad who fought so valiantly for the University of Tennessee, and who was wounded on the football field at the Thanksgiving Day game at the University of Kentucky. He is the poor hulk that has been sent home, sick in mind, and unrewarded.

No one blames anyone else for not providing for this man. He was the charge of us all. He still has a claim to the conscience of all sportsmen. When Tade was injured, and lay hovering between life and death, he was cared for with all the tenderness and love he had merited by his service and devotion to the University of Tennessee. Kentuckians were generous and kind. They, also, talked of the "Herbie Tade Annuity."

A small start was made to provide an annuity. After the condition of Tade was found to be incurable, and he was to be doomed to a life of muttering, shuffling, unconsciousness, due to an injury to the brain, the people of the two colleges involved began in earnest to provide an annuity. It is sufficient to say that only a few hundred dollars have been raised.

Now the father and mother of Herbie Tade are taking him home. He is still unrewarded. Good intentions were not enough. Human nature will not excuse the negligence so plainly demonstrated. Small school children a few years ago saved enough pennies to refit the old ship "Constitution." Thousands of dollars have been gathered together for worthy causes in short spaces of time. Americans are renowned for doing the things they want to do. The failure to provide for Herbie Tade is evidence that we didn't exert the necessary energy to assume this annuity.

Have we heard the last of Herbie Tade? Will Paducah swallow him? It is likely that we will be plagued with the recognition that nothing was done for one who deserved the most. Herbie Tade lives. He is loved by his family, but his maintenance is clearly burdensome. His Alma Mater, sportsmanship, school-spirit, and all these other intangible "things" will live, and blunder on.

It is not too late for us to do something. If we do not help this unfortunate lad we have failed in a trust. In the name of sportsmanship, why shouldn't something more be done for Herbie Tade?

The college professor who built a cabin a hundred miles from the campus so he could get some rest on the week-ends shows that he had more intelligence than college professors are usually given credit for.

Germany's repeated insistence that those American universities have accepted the University of Heidelberg celebration invitation, and the universities' just as firm denial reminds us that you can't invite someone as long as you don't make it public enough for him to hear of it.

On the Walk of Patterson Hall Harry Schobert, that powerhouse from Versailles, is being seen quite often in the presence of our South American senorita, Tridelt Julie McVean. In behalf of the swimming team we toss a great big bunch of roses to K. D. Names Not Only Make News, But Headlines Also

By FRANKLIN DRYDEN

Now that school is just about over we start reminiscing about some of our classmates and their peculiar names—some being so unusual or funny that we decided to put them all in a tour. Little expecting to have the story printed. We cheerfully swear on the freshman Bible that all names contained herein are authentic.

Let us travel to Europe. There we are met by the DE WILDES, the HOUERNS, the VAN DER VEERS, and the MILKOVICHES. Running up to Ireland for the week-end we see our old friends O'BANNON, O'HARA, PATRICK, and SHANNON.

"Pardon you? Why sure? What of it? Oh, a telegram. Let's see, what does it say?"

"YOU ARE WANTED AT YOUR LAWYER'S OFFICE IMMEDIATELY STOP HIGHLY IMPORTANT STOP REPORT TO THEIR BRANCH IN OLASGOW STOP (Signed) SCIENTARELLI."

Upon arrival in Olasgow we went to our lawyers, MCCLASKEY, MCCRAY, MCINTOSH, and MCNAUGHT, who were expecting us. Here we were introduced to a Mr. McGee, a secretary, who told us we had inherited the entire fortune of our great uncle, MCLOWEY. But we had to go to Russia first, where, by some eccentricity of Uncle MAC, we had to swear allegiance to the Red movement.

Detaining at Moscow in a raging blizzard, we hailed a cab of the CHEPELEFF Taxi company, Inc. Telling the driver to carry us to the headquarters of the Reds, we settled back and began wondering if we would get to Germany before the trip was over, as we had been invited to the beer party there in honor of the SAUER-kraut and pretzel kings, SCHEIDT, PICKLESIMER, BRUNER, KAAS, and SCHLEHUSER. Rudely awakened from our musings by the driver, we were escorted into the presence of the Red leaders, DUBANOWICZ, KURACHEK, NEVERDOSKI, and NEFF. Hearing the purpose of the visit they became interested and offered us a bottle of vodka. We, it seemed, walked in on a special meeting, called to plan a method of attack against nationalist Zulu savage tribesmen who were making their progress difficult in darkest Africa. Turning to us they asked for any suggestions that we might have to offer, but the vodka, by that time, was beginning to take effect and we were humming the strains of that beautiful opera, "Mussolini," by the famous Italian composers PEZZARROSSI and BIANCHE, and imagining ourselves in sunny Italy. But we were rudely brought back to reality by a headline stating that DIETRICH was to appear the next week at a theatre in Paris, France.

FLASH!! Who was the cute little blonde that was being kissed so sweetly by Philaph U. R. Apower on the steps of Pat Hall Sunday night? Oh, mighawd, I've got this thing mixed up with the scandal column.

Packing hurriedly, we rushed madly to the airport and soared for Paris, where we landed at the CHAUVEY Aldrome. Feeling the need of refreshments we journeyed to Le Rat Mort where the stative headwaiter D'ARCH piloted us to a table and took our order for a bottle of BOURGEOIS champagne, back to the hotel. (One month elapses).

What about the inheritance? Well, it's a LONG story. It was a JOBE (joke to you, lug) played by the Army to test your patriotism. Did we SHOVEAU them, you ain't lyin'!

VARSITY NET TEAM SCORES SIXTH STRAIGHT VICTORY

Coach Downing's Club Faces
Stiff Opposition from Northern Squads

By BILLY EVANS
By duplicating its score against Berea, eight matches won and one lost, over the University of Cincinnati, the University of Kentucky tennis team won their sixth consecutive victory. The match was played in Lexington on the University courts.

The only loss suffered by a Kentucky player was the defeat of Jimmy Moore by Fox, 6-3, 6-4. Fox is one of the best players to perform on the University courts this year. His powerful serve and excellent all court game proved too much for Moore. Although Moore was trailing four games to none in the second set, he made the count four all and then lost the next two and the match.

Hobby Evans won in a decisive manner 6-2, 6-2. The cross court forehand drive of Evans was his chief put away shot and his consistency in the long points won him several games.

In a real marathon match Tulloch defeated Zimov 15-13, 6-0. After losing the first set Zimov weakened very noticeably in the second and the play of Tulloch improved. The volleying and half-volleying of Tulloch was good for many points in the up-court.

Returning to his earlier form, Elvis Stahr defeated Moores 6-2, 6-2. Stahr showed that he had regained his knack of putting the ball away at the net and his serve became more consistent.

Francis Montgomery won another straight set victory for the Wildcats 6-0, 9-7, against Burrows. The consistent game of Montgomery, as in the past several times, was too much for his opponent.

In the final singles match "Chuch" Randall won over Wagner 6-3, 6-1. Randall displayed offensive powers in this match and made many points with cross court drives.

Kentucky's number one doubles team, Co-captains Moore and Stahr, partly avenged the defeat suffered by Moore when they defeated Fox and Leung in the doubles 6-3, 6-3. The play of the Wildcat team was sensational at the net and Moore made several deep lobs for points.

Evans and Tulloch won in a rather long match 6-1, 7-5. They are both excellent volleying and made many points that way against the Cincinnati team of Zimov and Moores.

The number three doubles team of Kentucky won the most decisive doubles victory of the day 6-2, 6-2, over Kothe and Burrows. Both Kentucky players were excellent at the net and their several lapses in the back court did not injure their chances against their weaker rivals.

The Kentucky team left Sunday morning for its annual week's trip. Instead of invading the South as teams of other years have done, Coach Downing's boys will face five Northern opponents on successive days. The 'Cat racquetters met Indiana yesterday afternoon and play Purdue at Lafayette, Indiana, today.

Wednesday afternoon, the Wildcats will face Notre Dame at South Bend; Thursday, Michigan State at East Lansing, and Friday, Wayne College at Detroit.

prizes suitable for the culinary arts will be awarded the winners. The judges for the cakes and candies include Miss Ruth Boyden, assistant in Home Economics and chairman of the judging committee; Miss Marie Backley, instructor in Home Economics, and Dr. J. Holmes Martin head of the Poultry department.

The chicks which include ten or more popular breeds of chickens, four breeds of turkeys, two breeds of ducks, and one breed of geese, will be displayed in special chick boxes with glass tops. The name of the exhibitor will be placed on each exhibit. The exhibits and tables will be decorated by the Lexington Roller Mills. Entries for this show have come from Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Tennessee and from all parts of Kentucky.

The exhibition will be open to the public Tuesday, May 12, from 5 to 10 p.m. and Wednesday, May 13, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m.

KITTEN NETTERS MEET HENRY CLAY

In the season's fourth match, the Kentucky freshman tennis team will meet Lexington Henry Clay High school at 2 p.m. today on the University courts. All members of the team are asked to report.

George Jackson, Al Buggie, Bob Taberling, Joe Adler and Ace Miller will play singles, while Jackson and Buggie will team up and Adler and Miller will couple to form the doubles combinations.

The Kittens have defeated K. M. I. and have lost two exhibition matches to Asbury College and the Union College, Barbourville squads.

RARE COLLECTION PRESENTED TO UK

A collection of 1500 photographic studies of American life and American industry, and five dieliths, requested.

one of the most primitive stringed plectrum musical instruments, have been presented to the University by John Jacob Niles, Brasstown, N. C. member of the staff of the John C. Campbell Folk school in Brasstown.

The collections, invaluable in the study of folk music from a historic standpoint, will be put on exhibit in the library as soon as they arrive.

Police School to Be On Campus Tomorrow

Dr. Lawrence Kolb, medical officer in charge, and presentation of interesting narcotic facts by W. K. McCurry, administrative assistant, Thursday's program will be concluded with a night session at which time Lieutenant Franklin M. Kreml, director of the Public Safety Institute, Purdue University, will deliver a lecture on "Our Greatest Problem Today."

Friday's program will include talks on crime investigation, crime records and reporting, and public relations and a tour of the new Lexington city jail, a demonstration of modern police equipment, and a pistol match on the Lexington police range directed by Lieutenant Clyde Mattox. Friday night the group will attend the Pershing Rifles drill meet on Stoll field.

All sessions of the school are open to the public. Morning sessions will begin at 9 o'clock, and afternoon sessions at 1 o'clock. All sessions will be held in room 111 of McVey hall with the exception of the narcotic farm program.

NEW R. O. T. C. INSTRUCTOR

Major Burton Lucas, World War veteran, has been ordered to active duty here from Fort Leavenworth, Kans. Major Lucas spent four years in the third weapon section at Fort Benning and one year at Fort Leavenworth, where he has made a very impressive record. He is scheduled to take up his duties next fall.

Le Cerele Francals will meet Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Woman's building. Two French plays will be given and plans for the annual banquet will be discussed. A full attendance is requested.

SWIMMING TEAM TOURNEY IS PLANNED

Members of the independent swimming team met last night at the Phi Kappa Tau house for a discussion of the coming state swimming meet which will be sponsored by the group and held May 21 at Eastern State Teachers College at Richmond.

Entry blanks have been sent to 14 schools in the state and it is expected that the majority will respond. Many of the schools will be sure to send individual entries by full teams.

SuKy, University pep organization, has donated a cup which will be presented to the winning team while the Lexington Herald has offered a rubber-up trophy.

Willis, Rogan Run In Exhibition Meet

Two University of Kentucky men performed at the Kentucky Inter-Scholastic Track and Field championships, Saturday afternoon at the Pont Manual Stadium in Louisville.

Dave Rogan and Ben Willis put on two exhibition races before the high school athletes. Rogan made an attempt to break the Southeastern 880 yard record of 1:55.4 which he had previously tied in practice at Stoll field. Captain Jack Crain paced Rogan in the last quarter of the exhibition but he fell short of his previous attempt, running the half in 1:57 flat.

Ben Willis, Kentucky's ace dash man and point collector, also put on a good exhibition by running the 100 yard dash in 9.6 seconds. This time lies that made by Anderson of Tennessee when he beat Willis by a few inches two weeks ago.

There were approximately 22 state high schools entered in the meet, with Male high school taking top honors. Herbie Shively, Kentucky's track coach, presented the trophies to the winning teams.
